

PLAINVIEW SITE

Address Restricted, Plainview

Excavations at this site demonstrated the antiquity of a type of spear point commonly found throughout the Plains region. It had long been suspected that such points were associated with ancient hunters, but this was not proven until they were found at this kill site with the remains of an extinct species of bison. This is the type site for the Plainview point, which dated from 7800–5100 B.C.